Train smarter this winter with the intelligent indoor training bike that tracks your progress on an app

WHAT DO YOU BUY the cyclist who thinks they have everything this Christmas? The piece of premium equipment they're missing, of course.

The Wattbike Atom is the most intelligent and effective indoor training bike on the market. Whether you want to become a stronger cyclist throughout the winter, or simply keep fit over Christmas and beyond, Wattbike Atom is a measurable and fun way to reach your goals.

BEAUTIFUL ENGINEERING

There's no denying it: the Atom looks as good as a snowy Christmas morning. Sleek lines, a black and red colour palette and traditional cycling drop handlebars combine perfectly to make the Atom the centrepiece of your home fitness space.

Constructed from tough, lightweight aluminium, the Wattbike Atom is long-lasting and built to withstand the exertion of Wattbike's own elite athletes, professional teams and tribe of fans. The bike is also surprisingly easy to move, with two in-built roller wheels allowing users to tilt and roll it next to the tree on Christmas morning.

DIVE INTO THE DATA

The Atom connects to a variety of popular cycling apps, such as the virtual world of Zwift, and has free access to Wattbike's own iOS and Android app, the Wattbike Hub. This app has multiple pre-loaded workouts and training plans, designed to work with an individual's level of fitness. They can support weight loss, improve performance or even help you train for your first 50-mile bike ride.

SUPER SMART AND CONNECTED

Wattbike is known for unparalleled accuracy. Whether you want to get into cycling for the first time, or you want to build on your athletic achievements, the Wattbike Atom is an effective and fun way for you to hit your targets.

The accuracy and data available is more detailed than any other home cycle trainer, made better by Wattbike's own unique performance metric: Pedal Effectiveness Score (PES). PES is a live view of how effectively you are pedalling the bike and can be used to improve technique and performance.

Wattbike is offering an exclusive Christmas deal of £120 worth of free equipment and subscriptions with every Atom purchase. To find out more, visit

Making headphones sound heavenly

ANYONE WHO INVESTS in a good pair of headphones and connects them directly to a smartphone, tablet or computer is wasting their potential. The audio processing and amplification in these devices is perfunctory at best, resulting in a flat and lifeless sound.

That's where iFi's award-winning xDSD portable headphone amp comes in. Made from strong yet lightweight magnesium alloy and eminently pocketable in size, the xDSD packs in super-sophisticated processing and powerful amplification to make the most of any headphones or earphones.

Connect the xDSD to a smartphone – via USB, or

Bluetooth for cable-free convenience – and the result is a studio-quality sound system that fits in your pocket, engaging the listener with energy, detail and dynamic impact similar to a live musical performance.

Described by the Financial Times as "a remarkable machine" and Expert Reviews as "the best on the market", the xDSD is the ultimate audio turbocharger for smartphones, tablets, laptops and more.
