How to tell if a salesperson is 'industry-approved' to sell finance

ALPHERA FINANCIAL SERVICES

indirectly provides drivers with vehicle finance, such as hire purchase and personal contract purchase agreements through retailers across the UK. We firmly believe in advocating the importance of education for car finance sellers, championing consumer rights and ensuring finance sellers help car buyers to understand everything there is to know about their car finance policy. We want car buyers everywhere to be able to confidently make a fully-informed decision about car finance.

This philosophy is the reason behind Alphera's recent work with the Institute of the Motor Industry (IMI), setting up a new industry-approved qualification for car finance sellers.

The new IMI accreditation fully complies with the stringent regulations laid down by the Financial Conduct Authority, reducing the likelihood of consumer mis-selling. Furthermore, it helps salespeople understand the needs of an individual buyer, ensuring they offer the most suitable finance products.

Consumers rightfully expect car finance products to be sold by specialists with a formal, industry-approved qualification. The IMI already works with car dealers and workshops across the UK, providing qualifications to ensure engine servicing, brake maintenance and other repairs and safety checks are carried out to the highest possible standard. The same now applies to vehicle finance sellers, helping car buyers receive the highest standards of sale.

If you're thinking of buying a car, you can check if a salesperson has an industry-approved IMI accreditation for car finance sales at the new IMI Professional Register, launched in partnership with Alphera: imiregister.org.uk

Motoring offence? Take our free advice

ACCORDING TO SWEDISH psychologist, Ola Svenson, 80% of drivers think they are safer than the average driver. However, based on the number of UK drivers prosecuted for motoring offences each year there may be a case for the suggestion that there is an element of illusory superiority involved in many drivers' views of their driving abilities.

Whether you are a good or bad driver, if driving is a crucial aspect of your day-to-day existence, any threat to your licence can cause significant concern. We understand that when faced with a motoring prosecution, most drivers want to gain a clear understanding of their legal position and options. This is why we offer a free "triage" service operated by qualified legal staff for all manner of motoring offences ranging from drink driving to speeding. The firm operates nationally from offices in London and Manchester.

Managing director, Jeanette Miller, (pictured above) explains. "Celebrity endorsements and 'loopholes' are are not really our style. Integrity and professionalism are key to the work we do. Our focus is also on innovation and development of strategic formulae using the facts of each case and relevant case law to establish the best option for our clients. This may be to advise to plead guilty and conduct a damage limitation exercise in the hope of leniency from a court or to defend the charge altogether."

To take advantage of the free triage service either visit our website or telephone us.

Micro jump starter packs a powerful punch

THE NEW RING RPPL200 Micro Jump Starter is small enough to keep in the glovebox, but has a powerful lithium battery that can start 12V vehicles up to 2L. The model is a fraction of the size and weight of a traditional lead-acid power pack, and can be recharged far more quickly. It also comes with a micro USB charging cable, making it easy to recharge either in the car or at home. It can be used as a power bank, via its USB socket, and has a built-in LED light that can be used as an emergency torch. This is the ideal solution to keep in the car in case of a flat battery.

For extra safety, the jump starter comes with intelligent clamps, which protect the vehicle and jump starter during use. The unit also features reverse polarity protection, to prevent sparks if attached to the wrong poles, as well as short circuit and anti-spike protection, to ensure that these starters are safe as well as easy to use.
