How easyMoney can help solve the savings crisis

THE SAVINGS AND INVESTMENTS markets are not working for savers. The market is peppered with bad cash ISAs that give low returns on savings products, which means people are not getting the returns they deserve from their money.

It's an endemic issue that easyMoney, part of Sir Stelios Haji-Ioannou's 'easy' family of brands, is tackling head-on by shaking up the market. Just as easyJet gave everyone in the UK and beyond better access to air travel, easyMoney is now giving people access to better quality investment products.

The truth is that existing savings products on the market just aren't pulling their weight. Even the very best easy-access cash ISAs out there offer a worryingly low 1.45%*. Inflation running at 1.9% means that cash ISA savers are actually losing money in real terms.

The big players are refusing to give investors competitive returns, but there are better options available. easyMoney's Innovative Finance ISA offers tax-free returns of up to 7.28% to investors across the UK - far better than cash ISA offers on the table.

easyMoney does this because they have no high-street branches that drive up costs and no old computer systems that need to be fixed every year. This allows them to pass on better rates to investors.

The 'easy' brand is known worldwide for giving people value for money, and that's exactly what they're giving investors with easyMoney. If you want better returns on your hard-earned money, visit easymoney.com today.

The easyMoney ISA is not a bank account and, as with all investing, your capital is at risk. E-Money Capital Ltd trading as easyMoney is authorised and regulated by the FCA (FRN 231680). No FSCS. Tax treatment dependent on individual circumstances and subject to change.
