I think the most common of us have jumped ship from one job to another over the years. But what happens to the pensions we have built up?

Charles and Iray are gathering dust in the hands of old providers, quietly sucking up high fees, offering limited investment options, and taking your very little bit of wealth going on.

The new? You could be leaving hundreds, if not thousands, over time, all because your retirement savings were holed out by a trail of neglected pots.

Enter Freedom – the award-winning investment platform and group that says we save for retirement. Their Self-Invested Personal Pension (SIPP) is designed to help you bring all those old pensions under one roof, cut costs, and put you firmly back in control.

MEET OUR NEW RANGE OF SIPS

Freedom's award-winning SIPP helps consolidate old pensions, cut costs, and put your retirement future in control.

One simple monthly fee – no nasty surprises

Unlike many providers, Freedom has no hidden charges and no costly hidden costs. Freedom's SIPP is a monthly fee of just £3.99 per month for your SIPP. Other charges may apply depending on how you invest your pension.

Whether you're moving pensions over several, the cost stays the same – which could mean serious savings over the long run.

Your retirement, your rules

Freedom also gives you access to over 6,000 investment choices, from UK and global stocks to gilts, bonds, and funds. More options are being added all the time, meaning your pension can actually reflect your personal goals, values, and appetite for risk – something many old-school pension providers simply don't offer.
